In Memory of Jimmy Griffin

One of Jimmy Griffin's passions was basketball. Ever since he was a little boy, he'd be seen dribbling, shooting, or playing basketball. He played basketball at St. Bede, Marist H.S., and achieved a Division I Athletic Scholarship for Basketball at Samford University in Birmingham, Alabama. Playing D-I basketball was his lifelong ambition, and this Chicago Southside Irish Catholic boy proudly moved down South to fulfill his dream. His dream was cut short during his senior year on Tuesday, September 8, 2009, when he quietly passed away in his sleep. There were no symptoms, but his heart had an undetected defect. His passing shocked and saddened all who knew him.

The Griffin family is determined that Jimmy's life and legacy will never be forgotten. Therefore, they have set up the Jimmy Griffin Legacy Foundation, which will benefit places Jimmy so loved: St. Bede Church and School, Marist High School, and Samford University. It will also benefit the American Heart Association.

"He was the greatest teammate I was ever around."
--Coach Derrick Jones
